

NOW OPEN

the VEDAS

Urban Indian Cuisine

With a distinctive Modern English & European flair

Reservations 01204 388434

150 seats on the ground floor

Modern Decor

Contemporary cooking

Healthy Choices

Table D'Hote starts at £7.95 for 2 courses including coffee

Exotic Fish & Vegetarian Menu

Freshly Made Desserts

Finest New World Wines

Menus Changed Daily

Come in for just one drink - bar snacks available

Customer loyalty scheme

Unlimited Hi-Life use

Other weekly special offers

"urban chic"
LANCASHIRE LIFE

"fantastic"
HUGH FEARNLY, RIVER COTTAGE

"metropolitan sophisticate"
MANCHESTER EVENING NEWS

Takeaway Service

Marsden House,
Marsden Road,
Bolton BL1 2JT

Advertisement Feature

Think Indian cuisine - think The Vedas

The modern reception and dining areas in The Vedas restaurant

The ultra-cool dining hot spot

Fact File

Company: The Vedas
Type of company: Indian Restaurant
Owners/Directors: Abdul Rouf
Established:
Location: Marsden House, Marsden Road, Bolton
Telephone number: 01204 388434
Website: www.thevedas.co.uk
Email Address: bolton@thevedas.co.uk

HIGH RECOMMENDATION: Abdul Rouf with TV chef Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall

If you thought Indian restaurants were all flock wallpaper and fiery curries then think again.

There's a new generation of Indian restaurateurs who have brought Asian food and restaurant decor bang up to date.

One such establishment is the ultra-cool Vedas restaurant in Bolton which offers fine Indian cuisine but with a distinctive modern English and European twist.

The beautifully designed restaurant has a modern and contemporary interior with subtle shades to compliment the relaxing and calm venue, with diners soothed by soft background jazz music.

The spacious lounge and wine bar with modern leather seating can seat up to 150 guests and is available for corporate functions, weddings and group parties. There is also an outside catering service available for weddings and parties.

Owner Abdul Rouf says: "We offer modern Indian food at competitive prices in beautiful surroundings, and where people can come in just for a drink and bar snacks if they don't want a full meal.

"We have a popular customer loyalty scheme and offer unlimited use of Hi-Life dining club membership cards and we also have weekly special offers."

The restaurant is already well known for providing food for many large companies including local councils, theatres, offices and factories.

A full a la carte menu is available as well as the selective table d'hote menu which offers two courses with coffee starting at £7.95.

The restaurant's top chefs source the finest ingredients locally and all the food is cooked on the premises with no food colouring used.

A select wine menu is available for diners with detailed taste guides to help choose the right wine for the right dish. All the wines have been tried and tested to suit the food at the restaurant.

The food at Vedas is traditional but is also innovative with mouth watering starters such as Thai fish cakes, mandira, chick pea and potato korai with panbaked Moorish bread and curried monkfish parcels and cumin kofte brochettes also on the menu.

Classic starters are also on offer and include tikka salad, lentil pakoras (onion bhaji) or prawn puri.

Main courses include Bengal roasted monkfish medallions and simla mirch with couscous biryani and desserts on offer include chocolate mousse and a selection of cheese and biscuits with celery and grapes.

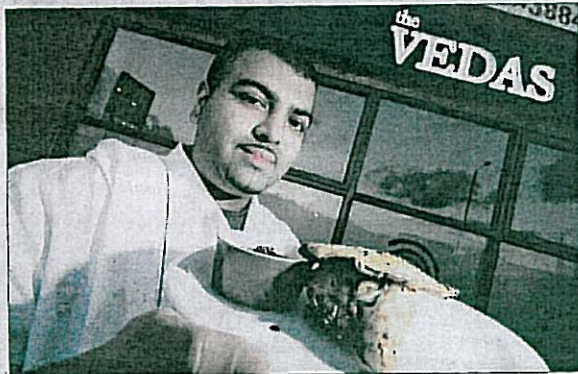

Vedas has received rave reviews and has been described as a "metropolitan sophisticate" and "urban chic".

And top TV chef Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall who created the hugely popular TV series River Cottage says Vedas is simply "fantastic".

The restaurant is not far from the town centre, near the main bus routes and there is a large car park at the rear with a separate entrance at the back of the building for those who drive.

● The Vedas Indian Restaurant is at Marsden House, Marsden Road, Bolton, telephone: 01204 388434. Opening hours are 5pm to 11pm seven days a week. Visit www.thevedas.co.uk

For further information or for a menu email bolton@thevedas.co.uk

AT YOUR SERVICE: Owner Abdul Rouf